A Listen to the conversations. Check the correct answers.

1.

MAN: Tell me about your family, Catherine. How many brothers and sisters do you have?

CATHERINE: Well, I have four sisters – Annette, Sarah, Jill, and Liza.

MAN: Wow! That's great! And do you have any brothers?

CATHERINE: Yes, I have three brothers – Ed, Mark, and Sam. And we all eat dinner together every night – all my brothers and sisters and my parents.

MAN: How fun! It's like having a party every night!

CATHERINE: Yeah, I guess it is.

2.

WOMAN: Hi, Mark! Nice to see you again! Hey, where are you working now?

MARK: I'm working full-time for a newspaper. I'm a photographer there.

WOMAN: Wow! That's interesting! Are you still living with your parents?

MARK: No, I'm not. I'm living in an apartment with Jim. He's an old friend from school.

WOMAN: So, you're not married?

MARK: No, not right now, but I am getting married this summer.

WOMAN: Congratulations!

MARK: Thanks!

3.

MAN: How often do you exercise, Sharon?

SHARON: Well, I go jogging about twice a week.

MAN: Oh, really? And do you ever go to the gym?

SHARON: Yes, I usually go on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

MAN: Wow! How long do you spend at the gym?

SHARON: Hmm, around two or three hours each time I go there.

MAN: Well, you like to be active!

SHARON: Yes, I do. I also play golf every Thursday.

4.

MAN: Listen to this, Kylie. It says here: "In Australia, many married couples have two children."

KYLIE: That's true in my family. My parents have two kids – my sister and me.

MAN: In my country, people often have big families. For example, I have six brothers and sisters.

KYLIE: Really? Are they all living at home?

MAN: Well, my younger brother and sister are still living at home with our parents. They're in school. The rest of us don't live at home anymore.

KYLIE: Are you all living in the same town?

MAN: No, two of my older brothers are single and working abroad, but my other older brother and my older sister live with their children near our parents. And, of course, I live here now.
