

A: Fill in the spaces with the words below.

Make write go text guess identify vocabulary notebook

When you're reading in a foreign language, you should try to get the gist of the . You will meet you don't recognize, but you can often through the text again. If so, try this:

- the new words and phrases which seem to be important. Try to the meaning from the context, and/or use a dictionary.
- Keep a record of the words in a , and if possible, a note of any special information. For example, is the word formal or informal? Is it used in a particular kind of construction, e.g. a verb that is often followed by a preposition?
- a translation if you think it helps; sometimes it isn't necessary.

B: Listen and fill the gaps.

- In a conversation, you can often ask another person to words or phrases you don't understand, and explain the meaning to you if necessary.
- Repeat new words to yourself, so you know how to them.
- Look for to practise them when you're speaking. Don't be afraid to with new language, and don't worry about mistakes.
- It's important to new vocabulary. If not, you may forget it quite quickly.
- Remember: there isn't a correct of learning vocabulary. Do what for you.